

FEET TELL A STORY

Look at the feet around you. Some are well groomed with the nails painted. Some are in flat sandals, and some in very high heels. There are feet in work shoes with steel toes, and feet in basketball shoes. And then there are golf shoes. Each shoe tells something about its owner.

Let's imagine the story of the foot in the photo. Its owner is very poor and has crawled upon the ground for many years, dragging that foot over sharp rocks, briars and thorns. It was crushed once by an iron wheeled wagon when he tried to crawl across a busy street. Now the foot rides safely and securely on the hand-cranked wheelchair, called a Mobility Cart, as does the owner of the foot.
